Detection of rat natural autoantibodies to rat recombinant desmoglein 1 in patients with pemphigus vulgaris and pemphigus foliaceus. A monoclonal antibody against the desmoglein 3 (Dsg3) extracellular domain revealed cross-reactive reactivity with the desmoglein 1 (Dsg1) extracellular domain. To clarify whether Dsg3(+) patients have Dsg1(+) natural autoantibodies. The sera from 17 patients with pemphigus vulgaris (PV) and 17 patients with pemphigus foliaceus (PF) were tested for reactivity to recombinant human (rh) Dsg1 by enzyme-linked immunosorbent assay. The results were compared to the reactivity of sera from 31 patients with bullous pemphigoid (BP), 22 patients with linear IgA bullous dermatosis (LABD), and 29 healthy volunteers. Dsg1 reactivity was detected in 20 (58.8%) patients with PV and in 16 (94.1%) patients with PF by enzyme-linked immunosorbent assay. In contrast, only two (7.7%) patients with BP and no patient with LABD showed reactivity to Dsg1. The detection of Dsg1 reactivity in 58.8% of patients with PV and in 94.1% of patients with PF implies a role for Dsg1 in the pathogenesis of PV and PF, although clinical manifestations of PV and PF are quite different. Selected Plug in: Output: First plug in the small black coloured wires on the back of your headphones into the socket marked "3". Second plug the red/white big wire on the back of your headphones into the socket marked "1". Insert the black cable from your amplification device into socket "2" on the back of your amplifier. Now plug the red/white cable from your amplification device into socket "4" on the front of your amplifier. Connect the audio jack to the socket marked "5" on the back of your amplifier. -the cable need to be unplugged as soon as the speakers start to produce sound. Remove the attached clip from the plastic casing of the amplifier. -the speaker is designed to be placed vertically. Lower the speaker on the white metal piece of the amplifier. Use the black measuring tape to mark a point on the back of the speaker where the speaker's tip is about 5 inches above the metal piece of the amplifier. -Place the speaker on the metal piece of the amplifier. Use the white measuring tape to measure the distance between the tip of the speaker and the metal piece of the amplifier. -Repeat the previous step using an audio jack instead of a speaker. Measure the distance between the tip of the jack and the metal piece of the amplifier
